

THE SOCIETY FOR THE STUDY OF
AMERICAN WOMEN WRITERS PRESENTS

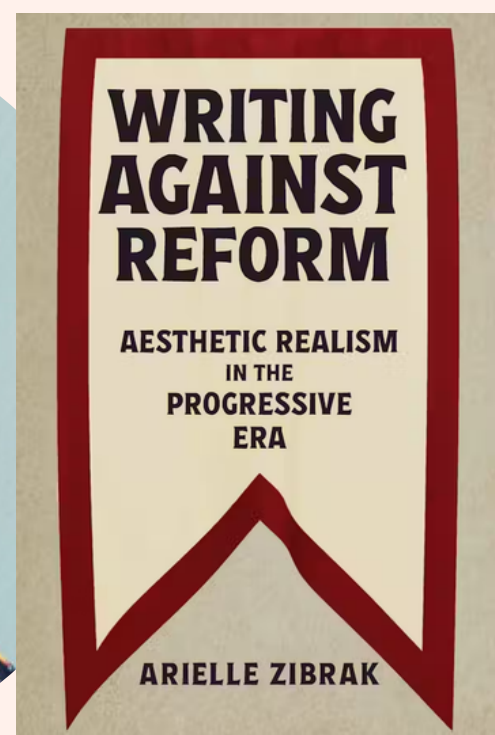

SSAWW Reads: Chats with Authors about Their New Books

OCTOBER 25, 2024 | 1:00-2:00 P.M. EST
10:00-11:00 A.M. PST

LAURA R. FISHER
Toronto Metropolitan University

ARIELLE ZIBRAK
University of Wyoming

What role did reform literature—in its many forms and genres—play in shaping modern US society? How did Progressive Era writing speak to and mobilize the socially disadvantaged, especially working- and middle-class women? And how did authors of the era both partake in direct reform work and critique reform aesthetics? Join Laura R. Fisher and Arielle Zibrak, in conversation with María Carla Sánchez, as they address these questions and discuss how their new books engage with the complex relationship between literature's social aims and its aesthetic value.

Moderated by María Carla Sánchez
University of North Carolina - Greensboro

Register Here:

https://usO6web.zoom.us/meeting/register/tZwodui-grzMsH92tHvNLfz2C9qK_uRctCGLi

